

Recovery at the forefront

BusinessWorld virtual forum tackles pandemic rebound outlooks, strategies

By Adrian Paul B. Conoza Special Features Assistant Editor

Almost two years after the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic struck the world, discussions are beginning to shift from how the pandemic has disrupted organizations and sectors to how businesses, governments, and society should move forward in the now normal.

BusinessWorld has been at the forefront of continuing these meaningful discussions on pandemic recovery when it held this year's BusinessWorld Virtual Economic Forum, with the theme "Recovery Roadmap PH 2022 and Beyond" last Nov. 24 to 25.

The two-day virtual forum brought together international and local industry experts, government officials, and thought leaders to share their insights on recovery prospects in the Philippines, across the globe, as well as among industries.

Miguel G. Belmonte, president and chief executive officer (CEO) of BusinessWorld, cited the emerging positive picture from reducing COVID-19 cases and accelerating vaccination drives to have inspired this year's theme.

"As we watch with bated breath case rates going down and the pace of vaccinations speeding up, we are all excited to leave the sordid

