BSP resumes easing with 25-bp cut

By Luisa Maria Jacinta C. Jocson
Senior Reporter

THE BANGKO SENTRAL ng Pilipinas (BSP) cut borrowing costs by 25 basis points (bps) on Thursday and signaled further easing amid a “more challenging external environment.”

The Monetary Board on Thursday reduced the target reverse repurchase rate by 25 bps to 5.5% from 5.75%. All 17 economists in a BusinessWorld poll last week predicted a 25-bp cut.

Rates on the overnight deposit and lending facilities were also lowered to 5% and 6%, respectively.

“The Monetary Board noted the more challenging external environment, which would dampen global gross domestic product (GDP) growth and pose a downside risk to domestic economic activity,” BSP Governor Eli M. Remolona, Jr. said.

“On balance, the more manageable inflation outlook and the risks to growth allow for a shift toward a more accommodative monetary policy stance,” he added.

Mr. Remolona noted the risks to the inflation outlook have also eased and remained “broadly balanced” until 2027.

The central bank slashed its risk-adjusted inflation forecasts to 2.3% in 2025 from 3.5% previously; and to 3.3% in 2026 from 3.7% previously. It also now expects inflation to average 3.2% in 2027.

“Like the rest of the world, we’re looking at slower growth, but unlike the rest of the world, we’re looking at lower inflation,” Mr. Remolona said.

“The rest of the world is looking at higher inflation. The lower inflation rates that we’re looking at give us more degrees of freedom,” he added.

Latest data from the local statistics authority showed inflation slowed to 1.8% in March from 2.1% in February, its slowest rate in nearly five years.

This brought average inflation to 2.2% in the first quarter, well within the central bank’s 2-4% target.

“Upside pressures come from possible increases in transport charges, meat prices, and utility rates,” Mr. Remolona said.

On the other hand, downside risks could come from “continuing effects of lower tariffs on rice imports and the expected impact of weaker global demand.”

US TARIFFS

Mr. Remolona said the US’ new tariff announcement had already been factored into its policy decision.

PHILIPPINES RISES IN SOCIAL PROGRESS INDEX

The Philippines went up two places to 86th out of 170 countries in the 2025 edition of the Global Social Progress Index by nonprofit organization Social Progress Imperative in partnership with global wealth manager AITI Teidemann. It was the country’s best performance in six years or since it placed 85th in 2018. With an overall score of 67.34 out of 100 points, the Philippines’ score was above the global average of 64.02.

PHL eyes tariff talks with USTR

By Chloe Mari A. Hufana
Reporter

THE PHILIPPINE government is willing to negotiate with the United States to lower the 17% tariff imposed on Philippine-made goods, according to Frederick D. Go, special assistant to the president for investment and economic affairs.

This comes after US President Donald J. Trump on Wednesday paused the steep new tariffs imposed on most of its trading partners, including the Philippines, for 90 days. However, the blanket 10% duty on nearly all US imports will remain in effect. (Read related story “Trump’s tariff pause focuses trade war on China” on S1/7.)

In a virtual Palace briefing, Mr. Go said he will head to Washington to discuss the tariff on Philippine goods with the US Trade Representative (USTR), but there is no definite date yet.

“This is not about appealing [the tariffs], but about negotiating,” Mr. Go said.

“The best possible outcome is a free trade agreement [between the Philippines and the US] — a free trade agreement means zero tariffs on their side and zero tariffs on our side — that’s probably the best possible outcome of that meeting, but again it’s open communication, dialogue, cooperation and let’s see what we can negotiate,” he added.

Citing the National Economic and Development Authority, Mr. Go estimated the 17% tariffs on Philippine goods will have a “small” 0.1% effect on the country’s gross domestic product (GDP) over the next two years.

“First of all, what we can clearly see in the reciprocal tariffs imposed by America on the world is that the Philippines has a slight advantage,” he added.

Moody’s Analytics trims PHL growth forecast on US tariffs

MOODY’S ANALYTICS trimmed its gross domestic product (GDP) forecast for the Philippines amid “weaker growth prospects” due to the impact of the US reciprocal tariffs.

“The US dealt the Philippines a harder blow than we expected, declaring a 17% tariff, so we have trimmed our GDP growth forecast to 5.8% from 5.9% in our March baseline,” it said in a report.

“Again, we’ll have to wait and see whether the diluted 10% tariff will last long term or revert to 17%.”

Moody’s Analytics’ forecast is below the government’s 6-8% target this year.

A chart from Moody’s Analytics showed the Philippines’ 17% tariff could have a direct hit of -0.4% on GDP.

“Although US President Donald J. Trump has just declared a 90-day freeze on most of the harsh tariffs announced a week ago and applied a 10% blanket tariff in their place, the April baseline represents the economic toll they’ll have should they eventually go ahead in full.”

“Even if a 10% tariff on most trading partners becomes a permanent US policy, many Asia-Pacific economies will suffer direct and indirect bruising as intraregional trade diminishes,” it added.

The tariffs are expected to weaken the country’s goods exports to the US, as it is the largest buyer of Philippine-made goods.

The Philippines’ top destination for exports is the United States, accounting for about 17% of the total in 2024.

“Further, slowing growth in China will hit service exports, especially in tourism-related sectors. Prior to the COVID-19 (coronavirus disease 2019) pandemic, Chinese tourists were the country’s largest group of visitors,” it added.

Moody’s Analytics flagged the uncertainties from countries’ tariff negotiations with the Trump administration.

“The big unknown is how negotiations might alter the extent and duration of tariffs in all directions and whether the US will extend its 90-day pause on tariffs for 75 countries.”

Mr. Trump’s tariffs have shown the steepest increases since the 1930s, it added.

“Uncertainty is palpable, with tumbling and volatile equity markets headlining financial market turbulence.”

“The negative and pervasive impact of a sustained rise in uncertainty cannot be understated. Household and business sentiment is crumbling, and if the calamity continues, monetary policy easing that was supposed to characterize 2025 will lose some of its potency.”

Consumers are also expected to spend less amid the economic uncertainty. Businesses are also seen to hold back on investments, it added.

The slew of tariffs also “increase the odds of a global recession,” Moody’s Analytics said.

“Under those tariffs, inflation across Asia would stay subdued amid weaker trade and growth dynamics. Inflation in the US, however, would rise as tariffs increased prices of producer and consumer goods.”

Meanwhile, Moody’s Analytics said Philippine inflation will likely remain within the 2-4% target band for the rest of the year.

It also expects the central bank to deliver another 25-basis-point (bp) rate cut in the second half, following its April policy decision.

‘TOO EARLY’

Meanwhile, Fitch Solutions unit BMI said the Philippine GDP may grow by 5.2% this year if the US implements a 17% tariff on the Philippines.

PHL urged to ramp up competitiveness amid Trump tariff reprieve

By Justine Irish D. Tabile
Reporter

THE PHILIPPINES should boost efforts to improve its competitiveness in attracting investments amid the 90-day pause on US President Donald J. Trump’s higher reciprocal tariffs.

“It is difficult to read Trump’s mind. Who knows, there might be another ‘shocker’ after the 90-day recess,” said Robert M. Young, president of the Foreign Buyers Association of the Philippines, in a Viber message on Thursday.

“In the meantime, let’s all get back to work and sharpen our pencils to re-evaluate and shape up to be able to compete globally. As it is, the Philippines is considered the last option due to the higher cost of doing business,” he added.

Mr. Young said it is high time for the Philippines to ramp up its capabilities as competition heats up with other markets.

“The Philippines’ focus should be on the major categories like agricultural products, electronics, minerals, and manufactured items like garments and apparel,” he added.

Mr. Trump on Wednesday announced a 90-day pause on the higher reciprocal tariffs on most of the US’ trading partners, including members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

The US slapped ASEAN countries with some of the highest tariffs. Cambodia is facing a 49% tariff, followed by Laos (48%), Vietnam (46%), Myanmar (44%), Thailand (36%), Indonesia (32%), Malaysia (24%), and Brunei (24%).

The Philippines was slapped with a 17% tariff, which is among the lowest in the region, only second to Singapore’s baseline rate of 10%.

With the 90-day pause now in place, all countries including the Philippines will face a blanket 10% duty until July.

Meanwhile, Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry

Chairman George T. Barcelon said that the business sector is still adopting a wait-and-see stance.

“[This pause] is a good development ... This period would give us some time to clarify the matter of if and when they will reimpose, whether it is across-the-board coverage or select goods still,” said Mr. Barcelon in a phone interview.
